added advantages over traditional juicers. The new products work by crushing produce and then separating the pulp and juice through a screen. The process is much quieter and typically produces more juice than a normal juicer. Slow juicers are also capable of juicing wheatgrass and other nutritious leafy greens. “For the past twenty years, there have only been high speed centrifugal juicers or manual hand crank juicers,” says Peter Mann, founder and senior editor of AmorWares, “Now with the slow juicer, consumers have an affordable, quality juicer that produces more nutrients and higher quality juice.” Two of Amorwares’ most popular slow juicers, the Omega Vert Slow Juicer VRT350HD and the Native Juicer PRSJ600 Pro Slow Juicer, are available to customers now with free shipping.

Omega Vert Slow Juicer

The Omega Vert Slow Juicer PRSJ600 is built to last and features a ten-year warranty. The unit operates at 80RPM, preventing the oxidation that takes place in higher speed blenders. Processing at a lower speed keeps healthy enzymes in juice and allows it to be stored for longer periods of time. The Vert Slow Juicer also includes an automatic cleaning system that keeps the nearly indestructible juicing screen clear during processing.

Native Juicer Pro Slow Juicer

The Native Juicer PRSJ600 Pro Slow Juicer can produce up to 32% more juice than comparable juicers. Soft and hard produce can be juiced at a slow speed with very high torque, preventing unhealthy oxidation. The Pro Slow Juicer keeps more vitamins and nutrients in juice and effectively separates juice from pulp. The unit is also quieter and smaller than centrifugal blenders, making it a good fit for the home.
