08/14/13 — - July 30, 2013

marked the beginning of a new contract between Arnold Schwarzenegger and MusclePharm to create the "Arnold Series," a new line of nutritional supplements.

Online retailers will have access to the Arnold Series beginning September 2013. The collection of eight supplements will target performance, nutrient support and recovery, power and strength. Schwarzenegger, a nutrition and fitness guru and leader, chose MusclePharm to develop the series because of its commitment to sports nutrition and science. The Arnold Series is representative of Schwarzenegger's dedication to fitness and desire to help everyone realize the benefits of health and nutrition.

MusclePharm is known for its broad selection of weight loss products, sport nutrition and muscle building products that are developed by nutritional scientists through a six-stage process at the MusclePharm Sports Science Center and Research Center. MusclePharm was founded by Brad Pyatt, a former NFL player who studied exercise science and kinesiology at the University of Kentucky. The company's products are offered through online retailers like Gold Key Nutrition.

"This new partnership has not only opened new doors for MusclePharm, but also companies like Gold Key Nutrition that are proud to offer its products," said Marianne Lease, owner of organic beauty products company Gold Key Nutrition. "It is exciting that our customers and many others will have the chance to purchase products from the Arnold Series to help them reach their fitness and health goals."

Gold Key Nutrition is an e-commerce nutrition company that offers a range of organic supplement, beauty, sports nutrition and weight loss products, like Garcina Cambogia Pure. It also provides seven flavors of all-natural, gluten-free dog treats.
