A native of British Columbia, this model, actress, entrepreneur, philanthropist and activist rose to national prominence and was transformed into one of the world's most desirable young stars when she was selected to play lifeguard C.J. Parker on Baywatch. Anderson's sexy slow-motion sprints made the show must-see TV and by the time she left in 1997 Baywatch had become the most popular series in broadcast history with more than 1.1 billion viewers in 180 countries worldwide. This 42-year-old mother-of-two has since starred in a succession of hits on the big and small screen including her documentary series Pam: Girl on the Loose and her favorite movie moment so far in Borat. She's also launched a clothing line with Richie Rich *A*Muse*, created a signature fragrance, Malibu, written a bestselling novel and has appeared on more magazine covers than any other star of her generation. Given her impressive "body" of work it's hardly surprising that this superstar was recently named the most downloaded woman on Earth by the Guinness Book of World Records .

In addition to her around-the-clock work as a model, actress and entrepreneur, Anderson is also a committed vegetarian and environmentalist who has campaigned tirelessly on behalf of PETA for more than a decade. Current projects include her role as the "face" of the current campaign for the work of a beloved friend, the legendary and revolutionary designer Vivienne Westwood and she can also be seen strutting her stuff on season 10 of Dancing with the Stars. This powerful woman, devoted mother, sex symbol and style icon continues to live life on her own terms and gives meaning to everything she does.

More than just traditional stand-up, the Videotron Just For Laughs Galas are hilariously high concept evenings of comedy and theatrics hosted by a different film or TV star every night. Stay tuned for more announcements as we unveil our full
