New York City (RPRN) 06/27/12 — R&B Soul music songstress Niva the soul diva has released a rock song. Niva the soul diva is rated by the industry-leading website reverbNation as one of the top R&B independent artists in the country. The song is an attempt to enter the rock genre format of the music industry.

Niva's new track is called 'You broke me apart'. The track features guitar virtuoso Johnny guitar Watson Jr.

The song was produced by Niva's production company at new black music.net. According to Niva, the song was purposely crafted to get the attention of guitar rock lovers while at the same time holding onto her core audience of R&B/soul and dance music fans. Niva stated I wrote this song to get people excited and turned on to something new and powerful. That's what the lead guitar is all about. I want people to feel the way people must've felt back in the 60s when they heard Jimi Hendrix for the first time. Let's be honest there is very little musicianship in dance music or R&B music today, that's why everything sounds the same and for many music lovers the fire is just not there. I want to start a music fire and shock people with some great musicianship.

Niva the soul diva is still an unsigned artists with no support from any major record company. Niva stated I am still hoping that a major record company will see my vision and get what I'm trying to do. It's been a long hard road but I am doing great things and I would love to partner with a company and climb the ladder of success even higher. 'You broke me apart' by Niva the soul diva is available at all major online stores. The song is currently being shipped out to both rock and pop radio.
