From now on, Rank Tracker will be revealing its users all pages of their websites ranking in Google for the same keywords. This is a huge add to the software, as it not only means monitoring the SEO progress of the top-optimized pages but rather getting the insight on website's entire Google presence. After having spotted the webpages that are overshadowed by the top-optimized page, any user can then easily adjust the SEO strategy to raise those pages to Google's top and multiply the traffic flow coming to the website.

Rank Tracker is being used by thousands of users from e-business starters to professional SEO masters to keep track of their websites' positions in Google. The piece of software comes as a part of the famous SEO PowerSuite, Link-Assistant's main and ultimate SEO product.

What is the new feature all about:

Rank Tracker checks every single page of a website, ranked for a particular keyword, and shows not just the winning page but also partially optimized pages that are already present somewhere in Google but haven't yet reached the top. These pages already got credibility from search engines, but being too far from the top they do not bring the website owner much traffic. This is why optimizing these pages can double, triple or even multiply the websites traffic by a few folds. Rank Tracker now detects such pages and helps users attract tons of traffic to their sites.

“Imagine having a car and going with just one wheel. Having a website and only getting traffic from one of its pages is somewhat similar. New Rank Tracker is designed to make sure your e-business is in full motion”, - says Viktor Khamianok, CEO at Link-Assistant.Com.
