03/13/14 — Recent studies from highly accredited medical research centers have highlighted the pain relief benefits that the natural element chondroitin can have for those with osteo arthritis. According to the University of Maryland Medical Center, results from several well-designed scientific studies suggest that chondroitin may be an effective support product for osteo arthritis, especially of the knee and hip[i]. Osteo arthritis is one of the most prevalent forms of arthritis in North America today. Millions of people across the US and Canada are suffering from osteo arthritis and require some form of joint pain relief due to this disease. Surprisingly, since anyone can get osteo arthritis at any age, it's a problem that has become increasingly seen in a range of age groups. Fortunately, with the right supplemental health support, most osteo arthritis sufferers can lead normal, healthy and active lives. It's for this reason that finding the ideal support is of the utmost priority.

The latest research has helped form the basis for the popularity of Bell Lifestyle Products' Shark Cartilage product. The Bell Shark Cartilage is designed to help support an active lifestyle by nourishing joint cartilage and lubricating the joint to provide pain relief to osteo arthritis sufferers.

The Bell Shark Cartilage is the ideal product for those arthritis sufferers that are searching for a non-pharmaceutical solution to their challenging joint pain issues. One of the leading benefits achieved through taking the Bell Shark Cartilage product is the modulation of inflammation around the joints. This inflammation is often the cause of the majority of joint pain, and so regular consumption of the Bell Shark Cartilage product can help resolve this issue and ensure greater joint mobility.

Pain sufferers will not feel any of the adverse effects of the leading pharmaceutical options on the market when they choose the Bell Shark Cartilage product. That's because Bell Shark Cartilage is instead made from naturally occurring ingredients such as shark chondroitin, which helps to maintain the structures in the body that support healthy joints in the long-term. Chondroitin is also a nutrient that is designed to strengthen cartilage and connective tissues, as well as lubricating factors within the joints. This type of nutritional support helps to build-up the cushy layer of tissue around the joint that absorbs much of the impact shock during exercise. Consider the experience of a recent Bell Lifestyle Products customer:

"I suffered for 5 years and tried many medicines. After taking 1/2 a bottle Bell Shark Cartilage #1 my pain started to diminish and after I finished the first bottle the pain was completely gone. I have told many people. Thanks a lot!" - Jean McCutcheon, 75 of Napanee, ON.

Many customers like Jean select products from the Bell Lifestyle Products because they know that the company is adept at preserving the nutritional value and the natural quality of the products they offer. Bell Lifestyle Products is a company that doesn't overly process their solutions. It is this business ethos that is highlighted by the fact that their shark cartilage products are not deodorized. While some companies deodorize their products, Bell Lifestyle Products helps ensure that their shark cartilage product retains its effectiveness by keeping each of the natural ingredients within the capsule for their customers' consumption and long-term benefit.

It's the latest natural health product for greater joint mobility and long-term osteo arthritis pain relief. Bell Lifestyle Products offers numerous convenient purchase methods.
