07/16/13 — The leading global SSL provider, SSL2BUY, has created a new, user friendly website with a straightforward and attractive front panel. The website includes convenience for any customer's specific online security solution needs. The website's homepage contains user-friendly menus allowing customers to browse SSL2BUY's huge range of SSL products, SSL certificates, products for signing documents, malware scanning tools, and world class certificate authorities, or CAs.

The SSL2BUY website includes a new store section. The store web page, <https://store.ssl2buy.com/>, is a very clear-cut page that lists the products and product prices. Customers can search the numerous products by brand name, enabling them to order the exact online security solution product that they need directly from the website.

SSL2BUY delivers top customer support. They are reachable at any hour by various means. Customers needing sales or technical support may contact their skilled and experienced support team through the contact form or live chat available via the website, email, or phone.

The premier SSL provider already offers the best prices to its customers. With the new website, customers can find the best deals via the coupon section, under “offers” on the easy-to-navigate website.

The SSL2BUY website is very convenient and easy-to-use. It offers account management to its customers. Customers can manage all of their SSL by a personal login. This feature can be found on the company’s homepage under “My Account.” The company also gives convenience to all of its customers through offering various payment options. Customers can purchase their SSL products with bank wire transfers, credit card payment, or PayPal.

SSL2BUY has an ssl partner program that provides many features through the website, including a partner area. For customers who sign up for the program, the company will “provide SOAP API access and WHMCS module for third party website integration to set up an online SSL web store.” They offer a free website, where partners can get a fully designed, developed, and functional module to start their own SSL web store.

Customers searching for the best prices in online security solutions and certificate authorities should visit www.SSL2BUY.com and check out their new website. In celebration of the new website, SSL2BUY has provided a website launch offer. “We are offering free Comodo EV SSL certificate to any customer who switches from other brand’s SSL to Comodo SSL,” a company rep said. This offer is valid for customers who bought SSL from other brands and would like to switch. Customers can also receive a 30 day 100% money back guarantee.
