

Whale Protections Remain Intact at International Meeting

June 24, 2010

Photo of Humpback whale with body (except for tail) belly-up in the air above the water.

AGADIR, MOROCCO
(rushPRnews) 06/24/10 — Ban on Commercial Whaling Upheld, Pro-Whaling Compromise Postponed

-- In a move welcomed by conservationists and pro-whale countries around the world, the International Whaling Commission today announced that it would postpone a compromise proposal that would have legalized commercial whaling. This move is a dramatic turnaround from years of secret, closed-door negotiations that led to the compromise proposal -- a proposal that would have sacrificed the quarter-century old ban on commercial whaling in an attempt to rein in Japan, Iceland and Norway's annual killings.

NRDC believes the whaling moratorium to be one of the 20th century's most iconic conservation victories. It has saved hundreds of thousands of whales since it took effect in 1986.

The Commission left the agenda item open, so the compromise proposal could be revisited later this week. It is more likely that the Commission will postpone any further discussions of a compromise until its next plenary meeting.

Following is a statement from Taryn Kiekow, staff attorney with NRDC's marine mammal protection program: "I'm cautiously optimistic. If the pro-whaling compromise is indeed off the table, that will be a huge victory for the whales against terrific odds. The Commission tasked with protecting these mammals has shown great leadership by refusing to adopt a proposal that could have led to the extinction of some already endangered and threatened species."

"Still, it is not enough that the decision is delayed. The International Whaling Commission must reaffirm its dedication to the preservation and protection of whales around the world. Now is the time to push for the conservation of whales -- without trading away the moratorium. Every day marine mammals face new attacks from entanglement, ship strikes, and pollution. It was reckless for the Commission to even consider sanctioning their slaughter at this time."

□

"What's being called a 'compromise' wasn't one at all -- it was a capitulation to pro-whaling interests at the expense of the whales. It would have legalized commercial whaling without seeking any end to it. Legitimizing commercial whaling would have rewarded Japan, Norway, and Iceland -- which have continued to kill tens of thousands of whales despite the moratorium -- for their years of flagrant defiance of international law."

Background

Japan, Iceland and Norway have killed roughly 35,000 whales since the moratorium was introduced in 1986. In Japan's case, the killings have been justified under the guise of "scientific research." Prior to the 1986 whaling moratorium, roughly 38,000 whales were killed annually (between 1945 and 1986), compared with an average of 1,240 whales killed per year after the moratorium (1987 onwards).

Killing pregnant whales is 'good news', say whalers

For more on the IWC, read Taryn Kiekow's blog from Morocco:

Good News for the Whales - IWC Delays Whaling "Compromise"

The Natural Resources Defense Council is a national, nonprofit organization of scientists, lawyers and environmental specialists dedicated to protecting public health and the environment. Founded in 1970, NRDC has 1.3 million members and online activists, served from offices in New York, Washington, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Beijing.

Media Contact Name: Jessica Lass

Media Phone: 310-434-2317

Media Web Address: <http://www.nrdc.org/media/2010/100623.asp>

Company Web Address: <http://iwcoffice.org/>

Main image credits: wikipedia

Body image credits: Kate Davison

About the author:

Frances Beinecke, NRDC President: NRDC is the nation's most effective environmental action organization. We use law, science and the support of 1.2 million members and online activists to protect the planet's wildlife and wild places and to ensure a safe and healthy environment for all living things.

<http://www.nrdc.org/>

Filed Under: BREAKING NEWS, ENVIRONMENT, Featured, PRESS RELEASE, World News

RUSH PR NEWS newswire and press release services at rushprnews.com /
AH Marketing ahmarketinggroup.com

Content- Legal Responsibility - All material is copyrighted - You may repost but you MUST link back to the original post on your page and acknowledge Rush PR News as the news source. Rush PR News is not legally and/or morally responsible for content of press releases, opinions expressed or fact-checking.

Rush PR News cannot be held legally responsible for material published and distributed through its newswire service or published in its press-room and therefore cannot be sued for published material. Third-party must be contacted directly to dispute content.

Rush PR News is not the contact for material published.